SafeColleges Online Staff Training System Honored With 2014 EDDIE Award

Scenario Learning's higher education training program recognized as industry's best

Cincinnati, Ohio (Oct. 21, 2014) – Scenario Learning, LLC, the leading developer of safety and compliance solutions for schools, colleges and workplaces, earned an Education Software Review (EDDIE) Award for its higher education online staff training program, SafeColleges Training. The company took home top prize in the “postsecondary online safety training” category.

The SafeColleges Online Staff Training System helps college administrators automate their staff and faculty training, saving valuable time and money. The system includes a comprehensive library of online courses covering important topics, such as Bloodborne Pathogens; Diversity; Hazing Prevention; Sexual Harassment; Visual Weapons Screening and more. All SafeColleges Training courses are 100 percent campus-focused and written by the nation's leading safety experts. Using the system, administrators can easily track training completions, monitor progress, download compliance reports and view or print certificates of completion. Customers who have implemented the program well have seen a more than 50 percent reduction in workers comp claims, saving hundreds of thousands of dollars a year.

In September, Scenario Learning added a new suite of Campus Sexual Violence Prevention courses to the SafeColleges Training System, written by leading safety experts Alison Kiss of The Clery Center and Michelle Issadore of SCOPE. The new courses help higher education institutions know and understand their obligations under requirements set forth by the Violence Against Women Reauthorization Act (VAWA).

“With the help of our SafeColleges Training System, colleges and universities can make important strides in ensuring their campuses are in compliance with state and federal laws – and, more importantly, safe for their students and staff,” said Brian Taylor, CEO at Scenario Learning.
